TIM KNOX

WHAT DO YOU GET WHEN YOU CROSS JEFF FOXWORTHY AND DONALD TRUMP?

You get Tim Knox, a bestselling author and nationally known business expert who has also opened for comedy legends like Jeff Foxworthy, Ron White, Gallagher, and many others.

As a sought-after speaker, syndicated business columnist, and contributing business writer for Entrepreneur.com, Tim's unique perspective is enjoyed by thousands who listen to his radio show, read his columns, and hear him speak every year.

Whether talking about business, success, motivation, life, family, kids, or dogs (he has 8 at last count) Tim's colorful message is filled with humor and common sense: two things that are sorely lacking in the world today.

Tim is a regular contributor on the topic of business to WHNT-TV and has been interviewed by Fox News, NY Post, ABC News, and many other media outlets on the topics of entrepreneurship, small business, and e-business.

As a serial entrepreneur, Tim is the founder of four successful companies and serves as an investor, mentor and advisor to many companies in his home town of Huntsville, Alabama.

As a teacher, Tim is a certified FastTrac® instructor who has led numerous seminars and has lectured extensively on the subjects of entrepreneurship, small business, technology and e-business.

Prior to becoming a full-time entrepreneur, Tim spent more than 20 years as a technology executive for Boeing Aerospace and Teledyne Technologies.

As a private business consultant, he led the e-business initiatives for companies like Advance Internet, Mercedes-Benz, Time Warner and many others.

In previous lives Tim worked as a standup comedian, a radio morning show host, an underground newspaper editor, an award-winning humor columnist, and almost-syndicated cartoonist.

Tim lives in Huntsville, Alabama with "one wife, two kids, and six dogs."

As he says, "Who could ask for anything more?"
